I'm working on getting you an update from the response team in Durango. I understand flow has been varying from 400-800 gpm, but that's based on info I received yesterday am.

Rich, circling back to yesterday's question. Is there someone who can get this to us by day's end please?

1.How many years has mine runoff from Gold King been flowing into Cement Creek and the Animas and at what rate?

2. What was the rate of runoff right after the breach?

If there's someone else you need me to reach out to on this, please let me know.

Thanks,

DF
